I wish to record my worries about the many houses earmarked for the area29. Our little town of Dursley was not built to have so many vehicles going through the narrow roads our town possesses. About five years ago our next door neighbour got divorced and eventually married and moved to Malmesbury. He had a classic car, and run-around. His new wife also had a car, as did each of her daughters. His own son had a car and they all left at the same time but in different directions. That makes six cars in one household.

Most households can have between two to four vehicles and the resultant chaos in our streets cannot be imagined.
